7TH EUROPEAN RESEARCH CONFERENCE ON MICROFINANCE 2021

Host University Required! Are you interested?

If so, please email Christophe Pausch: contact@e-mfp.eu
Welcome from Anastasia Cozarenco, Isabelle Guérin and Baptiste Venet

The 2019 edition of the European Research Conference on Microfinance is taking place in Paris, France, a country with a long tradition of financial inclusion, from the Monts-de-Piété and mutual and cooperative banks to contemporary microfinance.

Three higher education organizations with distinct traditions co-organize the event, reflecting the pluralistic approach we wish to give to the event:

University Paris Dauphine

was established in 1968, in a context of unprecedented reform in French higher education. It has always been an experimental university, with a scientific and educational project centered on the organization and decision sciences, fostering creativity in research and learning alike.

The school’s distinctiveness came about by promoting multidisciplinary education, infused with the latest scientific knowledge in economics, law, computer science, math, management science, political science, and sociology. Based on small group instruction, its educational model combines academic excellence with a close proximity to the business world.

With a view toward the city and societal challenges, Paris-Dauphine seeks to train engaged and responsible citizens.

Montpellier Business School was founded in 1897 and is a member of the eminent French Conference des Grandes Ecoles. MBS has been continuously ranked in the Financial Times’ Best Masters in Management rankings since 2012.

Firmly focused on business and entrepreneurship, open to French and International talents unique in their diversity and their profiles, MBS is recognized for its commitment to transmitting its core values: Ethics, Openness and Diversity. Global Responsibility and Performance.

Its mission is to train, through higher education programs, managers who are strengthened by their diversity, aware of their global responsibility in carrying out their missions and able to adapt to changes in local, national and international environments.

The French National Research Institute for Development (IRD)

created in 1937, is an internationally recognized multidisciplinary organization working primarily in partnership with Mediterranean and intertropical countries.

Via its network and presence in fifty or so countries, it takes an original approach to research, expertise, training and knowledge sharing to the benefit of countries and regions that make science and innovation key drivers in their development.

Global health, governance, inequalities & poverty, mobility & migration, climate change and other global changes, oceans, natural risks, sustainable agriculture, biodiversity, ecosystems and resources are just a few of the themes examined through a multidisciplinary approach.

We wanted this 2019 edition, entitled “New Tools, New Actors: Which aims, values and beneficiaries?”, to be an opportunity for dialogue and debate on issues that we believe are key to the future of microfinance.

One of these issues is the challenge of industrialization and massification, which has been fuelled by the increasing use of new technologies as supposedly efficient instruments for fostering financial inclusion worldwide. These new technologies have brought unprecedented opportunities, including cost reduction and the penetration of isolated areas. But they also present unparalleled risks, including issues of privacy, the use of big data for commercial purposes, and a loss of face-to-face relationships.

The spectrum of financial inclusion has also been observably widening. It now associates public transfers with various disciplines (economics, finance, anthropology), which will address classical but still crucial themes (such as double bottom line, governance and capital structure, interest rates, product design, impact evaluation and methods, over-indebtedness, green microfinance, etc.) and more recent or under-researched topics, such as social and cultural embeddedness of microfinance, impact investing, microfinance in developed countries or social entrepreneurship and solidarity economy.

We thank you very much for coming to share this event with us, sometimes from far away. We sincerely hope that this event will provide an opportunity for fruitful discussions that will contribute to building a more inclusive and sustainable financial world, financially but also and above all socially, humanly and ecologically.

We also hope that this event will be the opportunity to strengthen or build relationships, which will be future collaborations. Finally, we hope that you will enjoy Paris, the famous “City of Light”, during this summer season.

As you probably know, Notre Dame de Paris is severely damaged, but there are a thousand and one other places and monuments to visit and enjoy. You will discover some of them during the gala dinner on the banks of “Le Pasquier”.

She holds a Ph.D. in Economics from Auvergne University of Economics and benefited from a postdoctoral fellowship at the Centre for European Research in Microfinance (CERMI), Université libre de Bruxelles. Her current research is focused on microfinance in developed countries with special attention to regulation, non-financial services, subsidisation, discrimination and gender, from a theoretical and empirical perspectives. In 2018, Anastasia set up a Chair of Microfinance in Developed Countries in partnership with Crèa-Sol, a French microfinance institution, and the Caisse d’Epargne Languedoc-Roussillon. She published articles in Small Business Economics, Journal of Business Ethics, and Economics Letters. She is a member of the European Microfinance Network Research Committee.

OLIVIER EDELMAN - EUROPEAN INVESTMENT BANK

Olivier Edelman heads the EIB’s microfinance unit covering microfinance operations outside the EU. EIB, based in Luxembourg, is the European Union’s long-term financing institution. Olivier is responsible for the origination and execution of equity and loan operations (direct or indirect via funds) supporting micro-entrepreneurs and financial inclusion, notably via microfinance institutions. Previously, Olivier was in charge of the development and execution of portfolio guarantees benefiting SMEs and Mid-caps, via financial intermediaries, at the EIB and the European Investment Fund. Olivier joined the EIB Group in 2009 after holding positions in different Belgian commercial banks, including roles in structured finance. Olivier holds a degree in Economics from the ‘Université Libre de Bruxelles’ (Belgium).

PROFESSOR SUPRIYA GARHIPATI - UNIVERSITY OF LIVERPOOL

Supriya Garipati completed her doctoral studies in development economics from the University of Cambridge, UK and worked there for a few years before moving to Liverpool as an Associate Professor. Her research interests is mainly in examining the impact of public policy interventions on women's livelihoods and wellbeing with a focus on sustainability. She has worked extensively on development finance, rural labour markets, reproductive health and urban resilience in India. Her work has been supported by funding from DFID, British Academy and Newton Trust and published in several high ranking development journals. She recently co-edited a special issue on microfinance and gender for Journal of Development Studies. Dr Garipati also collaborates with practitioners to ensure that her research work has real world impact. Her research on India's microfinance program and the subsequent collaboration with the Andhra Pradesh government lead to the rollout of a rural livelihoods program in the state. She is currently working with the national stakeholders to map the livelihoods of microfinance clients across India.

DR ISABELLE GUÉRIN - INSTITUT DE RECHERCHE POUR LE DÉVELOPPEMENT

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We shared the pleasure and excitement of exploring the conference preparations with a number of organisations and people who we would like to acknowledge here:

- The CERMi team Marek Hudon, Marc Labie, and Ariane Szafars for their support and advices to organize the conference as best as possible;
- The European Microfinance Platform team Daniel Rozas, Christoph Pausch, Niamh Watters, Rachele Civitareale and Gemma Cavaliere for their support and many suggestions;
- The Scientific Committee for their time spent as reviewers and in adjudicating our Best PhD Paper Award;
- The moderators both in plenary and parallel sessions for their courageous time-keeping;
- The colleagues from Portsmouth University, Joana Afonso and Michael O’Connor for sharing with us their experience;
- The many speakers and presenters for agreeing to be involved;

We want also to sincerely thank many supportive colleagues at the University Paris-Dauphine and Montpellier Business School without whose support, this event would simply not have been possible:

David Ettinger (Head of the LEDa), Emmanuelle Lavallée and Sandrine Mesplé-Somps (Heads of the UMR DIAL-LEDa), Cécile Billois-Fontalavie (LEDa), Vanina Youmbi (LEDa), Nathalie Ferragu (LEDa), Yohan Rensard (UMR DIAL-LEDa), Agnès Casl (Research Support Branch, University Paris-Dauphine), Gaëlle Regnier (Community Manager, University Paris-Dauphine), Alice Berranger (Communication officer, University Paris-Dauphine), Said Algane (Dauphine Travel), Olivia Smewing (Communication project manager, Montpellier Business School), Lidia Moussa (Communication Coordinator, Montpellier Business School), Isabelle Coudroy (Executive Assistant, Montpellier Business School), Philippe Dauche (Graphic Designer, LigneBlanche).

We appreciate very much your ongoing support and look forward to having the opportunity to work together sometime again.
